The weapon is considered a reliable backup sidearm for law enforcement and is one of the highest-rated weapons that fires a .380 ACP round, according to Bersa Firearms USA. The Bersa 380, like all weapons, needs periodic maintenance, especially after target shooting. Maintenance will ensure that no gunpowder residue will foul or freeze onto the weapon's moving parts, and will deter corrosion from exposure to moisture. So read below and find out which ones are the best ones for your Bersa Thunder 380 CC 1. No. 9 Hoppes Gun Cleaner The best bore cleaner for your Bersa Thunder 380 CC(From $8.23) Hoppe's No. 9 lubricating oil is currently the best selling option when it comes to gun cleaning and maintenance tools. It's designed to be used for virtually any firearm, however, it can also be applied to fishing reels and other precision mechanisms. This lubricating oil comes in a 0.5 oz. needle point bottle and you are also given a refill bottle containing more than 2 oz. of extra oil. The needle point finish makes it easy to apply the liquid on almost anything. The extra oil is extremely handy, as the liquid isn't prone to expiration, so you won't have to constantly keep buying more bottles if you don't overdo it with cleaning (but then again, can care of your gun be overdone?). Hoppe's No.9 relies on high-viscosity oil that they refined to perfection. If you are looking for a gun lube that's packed in a bottle that fits almost anywhere and you also want to have some spare oil, then this bundle from Hoppe's is a must have. 2. Break-Free - The best Gun Cleaner spray for your Bersa Thunder 380 CC (From $14.00) Over the years we've tested just about every CLP looking for the best gun cleaner spray and many people swear by the Break Free CLP and say that it's the best gun cleaning aerosol spray that they have ever used. Break free comes in either aerosol spray cans or spray bottles. Most people prefer the aerosol spray with the little straw on the end, to target individual spots. This CLP has a very high weather tolerance and works in all conditions, which is probably why it's become so popular. 3. Hoppe's no. 9 - Best Gun Cleaner Lubricant For Your Bersa Thunder 380 CC (From $7.69) Hoppe's again. Well, this is the best one that you can find on amazon, which is rated by the number of happy customers, so we can assume that it's the best choice for your Bersa Thunder 380 CC. If you are asking - what makes it so great, the answer is: An advanced oil especially designed for the modern firearm. Provides a barrier against moisture and corrosion. Also works great on fishing reels and other mechanisms. Superior lubrication and protection to all areas of your firearm reducing the wear and tear caused by friction. 4. Tetra - Best Gun Grease for your Bersa Thunder 380 CC (From $9.45) When storing your firearm after cleaning you want to use the best gun grease to preserve it for a long time. When you purchase a new firearm often times you will find that it has a light coat of grease on all of the metal parts. This helps to prevent corrosion that can build up while on the shelf in the store. If the gun is in the original box you can assume it's been greased by the manufacturer. Most gun stores will decrease the gun before selling it. 5. Pro-Shot - Best Needle Oiler CLP For Your Bersa Thunder 380 CC (From $8.82) Many people like to include a needle oiler in their gun cleaning kit. This is the best needle oiler we could find and it was a tough pick between this and hoppe's. But we are getting tired of putting all of hoppe's products on our list, so we thought we would check the competition. For the most part, people can't tell the difference between this and the hoppe's, other than the price difference. This one is slightly less expensive and has a nice red liquid and better needle. The Importance Of Cleaning Your Bersa Thunder 380 CC Your Bersa Thunder 380 CC is a tool. Like any other tool, it should be maintained properly as needed. If there is any dirt, mud or any damage that can cause a gun won't work properly, you can have a serious problem. You are betting your life on the gun working when you pull the trigger. The more care you take about your gun, the safer and reliable it works. If you carry your gun a lot, even if you haven't shot it much, it should be cleaned, lubricated, and function-checked at least once every three months as while carrying, a gun is exposed to body oils, sweat, dirt, dust, lint, moisture, etc. for each and every handgun you own. You should read the owner's manual for specific disassembly, reassembly, lubrication and cleaning instructions. Let's find out why your Bersa Thunder 380 CC needs cleaning. Cleaning and maintenance of your Bersa Thunder 380 CC can be summed up into 3 main reasons: 1. Longevity 2. Personal Gun Knowledge 3. Safety & Reliability Longevity Do you want your Bersa Thunder 380 CC to last decades instead of years? Then you must clean it. If your friend has a rifle that is great-great grandfather carried in the swamps of Flanders then you must know, that he takes care of it and does not leave it laying around in his basement. A simple cleaning, oiling and storing the gun in a case or safe can preserve it for a long time. Keep in mind, guns with wooden inserts, handles or stocks will take some extra care. Depending on the type of wood, you can use a wax or sometimes a polish just like you would on your wooden furniture. Personal Gun Knowledge It's simple. The more times you disassemble your Bersa Thunder 380 CC into pieces the more you know how it works, how the part works etc. You get to know your gun from the inside. It may seem hard at the beginning but practice makes perfect and soon you will be able to understand what a skilled gunsmith is talking about. You will also know the wonders of lubrication. It needs a lot of practice to know the right amount. Overlubrication can lead to failure to fire or failure to eject, so you have to be precise with it. Safety and reliability Do you know what you should do after you finish firing your Bersa Thunder 380 CC ? You should clean it. It prolongs the life of the firearm and increases the most important matter - safety and reliability. You know, if you are in a threatening situation the last thing you want is a malfunctioning firearm. So keep this in mind and clean, clean, clean. How To [Completely] Clean Your Bersa Thunder 380 CC In 9 Steps 1. Get A Cleaning Kit This is obvious we know, but let's just say you really don't know how to. So a pre-assembled kit is where you start. A basic cleaning kit includes: Cleaning solvent Lubricant, or gun oil A bore brush A patch holder and patches Cleaning rod A nylon cleaning brush Flashlight Cotton swabs Microfiber cloths for polishing Now that you've got a kit you can continue with the process. 2. Unload your gun Another obvious step but there is never enough gun safety reminders. Unload your Bersa {GUMODEL} and make sure that the gun is empty and safe. 3. Disassemble your gun as much as the manufacturer recommends Your Bersa Thunder 380 CC comes with a user manual so check it for information on recommended disassembly and follow the instructions. This lets you access all the parts that became dirty from gun use. 4. Ventilate your area You want to keep your Bersa Thunder 380 CC to be clean but at the same time you lungs to be clean. Solvent fumes are noxious and can make you sick. Likewise, the solvent and lubricant used just flat-out smell foul if you try to clean your guns indoors, so keep your family happy and don't stink up the joint. Cover your work surface with plastic bags, newspaper, or old towels you've saved for the purpose. Head out to the garage and put the door up, or clean your guns on a bright and dry day to get them cleaned properly. 5. Clean out the barrel with cleaning rod and patches Soak the bore, or inside of the barrel, using a cleaning rod, patch holder and the right size cotton patches for your gun. Work from the back of the bore if you can. If not, use a muzzle guard. The muzzle guard keeps the cleaning rod from banging against the muzzle, which can cause your gun to malfunction. To thoroughly clean the barrel out, push a solvent-soaked patch through the bore until it exits the other end. Remove the patch, don't pull it back through. Pulling it back through will just redeposit all the gunk you clean off. 6. Alternate the bore brush and patches to thoroughly scrub the barrel Remove the patch holder and attach the bore brush. Run the bore brush back and forth along the full length of the bore 3 or 4 times to loosen any debris. Next, reattach the patch holder and run solvent-soaked cotton patches through the bore. Remove them when they exit the front. Repeat this process until a patch comes out clean. Run one more dry patch through to dry it out and inspect it closely for any build-up you may have missed. 7. Lubricate the barrel Attach the cotton mop to the cleaning rod. Apply a few drops of gun conditioner or lubricant to the cotton mop and run it through the bore to leave a light coating of gun oil on the inside. 8. Clean and lubricate the action with solvent Apply solvent to the gun brush and brush all parts of the action. Wipe them dry with a clean cloth. Next, lubricate the moving parts of the action lightly. A light coating helps prevent rust. A heavy coating gets gummy and attracts debris, so only use a small amount. 9. Wipe down the rest of your Bersa Thunder 380 CC with a cloth. This is a flannel cloth that comes pre-treated with a silicone lubricant. It will remove any remaining debris, including acid from fingerprints, and add shine. If you don't have a particular cloth designated for cleaning guns, old t-shirts and pairs of socks work really well for the purpose. Use something you've got lying around and won't need to reuse.
